USITC INSTITUTES SECTION 337 INVESTIGATION ON CERTAIN DEVICES WITH SECURE COMMUNICATION CAPABILITIES,
COMPONENTS THEREOF, AND PRODUCTS CONTAINING THE SAME

The U.S. International Trade Commission (USITC) has voted to institute an investigation of certain devices with secure communication capabilities, components thereof, and products containing the same. The products at issue in this investigation are devices with secure communication applications installed in various electronic devices to create a secure communication environment between two devices when in use by consumers.

The investigation is based on a complaint filed by VirnetX, Inc., of Zephyr Cove, NV, on November 4, 2011. The complaint alleges violations of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 in the importation into the United States and sale of certain devices with secure communication capabilities, components thereof, and products containing the same that infringe a patent asserted by the complainant. The complainant requests that the USITC issue an exclusion order and cease and desist orders.

The USITC has identified Apple, Inc., of Cupertino, CA, as the respondent in this investigation.

By instituting this investigation (337-TA-818), the USITC has not yet made any decision on the merits of the case. The USITC's Chief Administrative Law Judge will assign the case to one of the USITC's six administrative law judges (ALJ), who will schedule and hold an evidentiary hearing. The ALJ will make an initial determination as to whether there is a violation of section 337; that initial determination is subject to review by the Commission.

The USITC will make a final determination in the investigation at the earliest practicable time. Within 45 days after institution of the investigation, the USITC will set a target date for completing the investigation. USITC remedial orders in section 337 cases are effective when issued and become final 60 days after issuance unless disapproved for policy reasons by the U.S. Trade Representative within that 60-day period.
